What is an LOE ?

• The LOE is a formal approval document that Microsoft issues the customer to enable them to access the Shape the Future program.

Who acquires a LOE ?

- The customer / end user requests a LOE directly from Microsoft. Dell can not request on behalf of the customer, nor can partners.
 - If a customer does not have a MS contact, then we can enlist our local MS reps for assistance and customer introduction.
- The Customer must provide the LOE to their Dell sales rep before a quote can be created
- If the deal is through channel, the customer must provide to their reseller and the reseller must provide to their Dell sales rep.

New Microsoft Customer Portal

- Available for developed markets only. The new approval is called an eLOE
- Customer visits the Microsoft Shape the Future portal: http://aka.ms/shapethefuture
- Please note that only the end user can request an LOE. The portal is not available for OEM's or partners to request on a customer's behalf.

Which StF Tier requires a LOE / eLOE ?

• Standard, Plus, & Strategic Tiers– Developed markets

Term of Eligibility

- LOEs are generally issued for 1 year.
- The date the LOE expires is the final date Dell can ship, it is not the final date the customer can order.
- Without an LOE on file, Dell is not permitted to issue sales quotes or accept orders.
